PREFACE

The Government of the Republic of Trinidad and Tobago (GORTT) recognises that the tourism sector has the potential to contribute significantly to the economic and socio-cultural goals of the country. As part of its diversification efforts, the GORTT is committed to developing a sustainable travel and tourism industry, one that uses the cultural, historic, natural and recreational assets of the country to position Trinidad and Tobago as a unique and competitive tourism destination.

The development of a sport tourism policy has its genesis in the National Sport Policy, 2002 as well as the National Tourism Policy, (NTP) 2010 (Refer Appendix I). These policies provide a framework for the development and growth of the sport tourism niche in Trinidad and Tobago. The NTP recommends the development of a range of niche tourism products to maximise the economic benefits of tourism. Sport tourism has been identified as providing a strong competitive advantage for Trinidad and Tobago given its ideal climate, quality sporting facilities, range of sporting activities, hosting capabilities and strong name recognition of Trinidad and Tobago’s sport ambassadors.

In this regard, the Ministry of Tourism (MOT), the Ministry of Sport and Youth Affairs (MSYA) and the Tobago House of Assembly (THA) as well as the respective implementation agencies have collaborated to develop this sport tourism policy. The aim of the Policy is to facilitate the development and growth of an internationally competitive sport tourism niche in Trinidad and Tobago.

This policy is arranged as follows:

Section 1 provides an insight into the Sport Tourism industry.

Section 2 provides the global and regional trends of Sport Tourism.

Section 3 outlines the potential for Sport Tourism.

Section 4 identifies the key considerations in developing Sport Tourism.

Section 5 outlines the Sport Tourism Policy Framework, and includes the policy statement, vision, goals, objectives and outcomes.

Section 6 outlines the strategic objectives for Sport Tourism.

Sections 7 provides the desired outcomes for Sport Tourism.

Section 8 provides key success factors for a sustainable Sport Tourism niche.

Section 9 focuses on the Institutional and Regulatory Framework.

Section 10 outlines the proposed implementation of the Sport Tourism Policy.

Section 11 outlines the monitoring and evaluation component of the Sport Tourism Policy.
1. INTRODUCTION

Travel and Tourism is recognized as one of the world’s leading industries contributing significantly to Gross Domestic Product (GDP), employment, exports and taxes for both developed and developing countries. Recent years have seen Travel and Tourism growing at a faster rate than both the wider economy and other significant sectors such as automotive, financial services and health care (WTTC, 2015).

The development of a robust and resilient sport tourism sector requires a strong alliance between tourism and sport, the identification and establishment of linkages among various sectors of the economy, the raising of awareness and benefits of sport tourism, detailed coordination and planning among key players, and building and strengthening the capacity to host successful sporting events. The GORTT will benchmark successful sporting destinations and adopt and adapt mechanisms to improve the destination’s capacity to host successful events.

Hosting successful sport tourism activities rely heavily on the accessibility and availability of adequate, well maintained infrastructure such as sporting facilities, accommodation, air and road transportation networks and other tourism ancillary facilities and services including food and beverage, and entertainment. Apart from the media exposure and branding opportunities that staging successful high profile events afford a destination, sport tourism offers new revenue streams by stimulating economic activity in communities in which the events take place.

1.2 Sport Tourism Defined

While there is no single, agreed upon definition of what constitutes sport tourism, after reviewing several definitions, this Policy adopts the Standeven and De Knop definition of sport tourism, (1999) which states that “Sport tourism includes all forms of active and passive involvement in sport, casually or in an organized way, for non-commercial or business/commercial reasons, that imply travelling away from home and work”.

2. GLOBAL AND REGIONAL TRENDS IN SPORT TOURISM

According to World Travel and Tourism Council (WTTC), Travel and Tourism grew by 3.3% generating US$7.6 trillion (10.2% of global GDP) and 292 million jobs (1 in 10 jobs) for the global economy in 2016. During 2016, the number of international tourist arrivals reached 1,235 million, a 3.9% growth over the previous year (1,189 million). From 2017, Travel and Tourism is expected to grow by 3.8% generating US$ 7.9 trillion, with investments expected to increase by 6%. By 2027, it is anticipated that the travel and tourism industry will account for an 11% growth in GDP and is expected to support 380 million jobs.6

Travel for the purpose of participating in or viewing of a sporting activity is growing globally with $3.4 billion being generated in annual spending (Statistics Canada 2008, cited in British Colombia Tourism 2011). According to the Canadian Sport Tourism Alliance, Canada’s tourism receipts from sport tourists totalled approximately US $5.2 billion in 2012. This was mainly because sport tourism revenues were driven by the strength of the domestic market, which saw spending increase by 6.7% from 2011 (US $4.9 billion). According to Eapen (2014), sport tourism has evolved from viewing the sport live to being paired with MICE and leisure trips. It is one of the fastest growing sectors in the tourism industry, generating an annual revenue of approximately US $600 billion.

Similarly, sport tourism has accounted for increased growth in the Australian tourism industry. According to Sport Tourism Issues, a paper published by the Australia Tourism and Transport Forum (July 2012), sporting events played an important role in driving tourism in Australia. The success of events such as the 2000 Sydney Olympics and the 2006 Commonwealth Games have helped position Australia as an international destination known for leisure tourism and sports participation. Additionally, the F1 Grand Prix, Australian Open and cricket tournaments in Melbourne provide an annual experience to travellers through a combination of sport and sightseeing packages.

According to Yatra.com, over 9,000 Indians travelled to Australia during February and March to attend the 2015 ICC Cricket World Cup.7 PricewaterhouseCoopers reported that more than AUS $1.1 billion was generated from the 2015 ICC Cricket World Cup tournament co-hosted by Australia and New Zealand whilst AUS $855 million was generated solely from visitor spend.8 It was also estimated that 8,320 jobs were created and a total of 2 million hotel beds were occupied by visitors in both Australia and New Zealand. In addition, approximately 1,016,420 visitors attended the cricket matches with 145,000 being reported as international visitors.

In 2011, VisitBritain reported that sport tourism contributed an estimated £2.3 billion to the British economy and in 2012, the Daily Mail reported that 1.3 million tourists travelled to the United Kingdom to attend live sporting events which generated a total spend of £1.1 billion. In the same year, 900,000 football tourists travelled to the United Kingdom spending a total of £706 million or an average of £785 per visitor during their trip. The Office for National Statistics International Passenger Survey indicated that football is the main sport that attracts visitors to Britain, followed by cricket, Ascot racing and golf. The Office for National Statistics also reported that 590,000 persons travelled to attend the 2012 London Olympic Games, spending an average of £1,290 during their visit.9

A recent study commissioned by the Brazilian government showed that the 2016 Olympic Games in Rio de Janeiro will provide a boost of more than US $24 billion from 2010 until 2027 for the country’s economy. However, as the games drew closer and with the outbreak of the Zika virus in Brazil, this estimated revenue prediction became uncertain. Nevertheless, despite the threat of the Zika virus, the eventual hosting of the 2016 Rio Olympics, resulted in the mayor of Rio - Eduardo Paes reporting that 1.17 million tourists visited Rio during the Olympic Games with the city experiencing a 94% increase in hotel occupancy rates and an increased average tourist spend of US $131.7 per day.

Within the Caribbean region, sport tourism is seen as a vital part of the tourism industry. The Caribbean Tourism Organisation (CTO) indicated that the Cricket World Cup held within the region in 2007, resulted in an estimated increase in visitor arrivals of 100,000 persons. In addition, many islands, including Barbados, promote this form of tourism on their national website thereby encouraging visitors to make trips with this purpose in mind. An Economic Impact Assessment conducted by the organisers of the Caribbean Premier League (CPL) reported that the 2016 CPL tournament generated $US 20.4 million in visitor spend due to a 31% increase in attendance by visitors. The study also reported that media exposure from the event increased by 7%, generating US $8.26 million. A total of 240 local jobs were created and 3,899 hotel rooms were filled during the 2016 CPL.

2.1 Trinidad and Tobago Trend in Sport Tourism

In 2014, a CPL report stated that the economic impact of the multi-day event to host countries equalled US $168 million and was able to reach 65 million viewers via television, almost double that of the previous year. After hosting preliminary and final CPL T20 games in 2015, 811 outbound non-nationals were interviewed at the Piarco International Airport and just over 11% stated that they either travelled to Trinidad specifically for the CPL T20 or attended one or more CPL T20 games.

According to the Central Statistical Office of Trinidad and Tobago (CSO), in 2015 approximately 6,315 persons visited Trinidad and Tobago for the purpose of either participating in or attending a sporting event. This figure shows an increase of 6.4% over 2014’s figure of 5,936 arrivals. The latest statistics received have demonstrated a decline in arrivals by 6.7% for 2016, as 5,895 tourists indicated that they were visiting for sports and sport related activities. However, in examining the trend over the three-year period, the statistics have remained within a fairly consistent range.

Events like the Caribbean Premier League (CPL) T20, the Pan American Junior Track Cycling Championships, the Tobago International Cycling Classic and the Rugby Americas North (RAN) Rugby 7’s tournament, generate diverse and heterogeneous flows of travellers that may include fans, athletes, coaches, media, team personnel, parents and other family members. Similarly, local sport events are predominantly hosted within communities. Some of these events include but are not limited to the Trinidad and Tobago Pro League, T10 Community Cricket League (CCL), track and field and hockey tournaments.

At present, there is a dearth of data available for sport tourism in Trinidad and Tobago and the data that is available only provides a partial picture of the potential for sport tourism at the destination. Research has to be conducted on existing and potential sport events, target markets for new and enhanced sport tourism packages, and sport segments that will yield the optimum return for the proposed investment. Based on the foregoing, the economic, environmental and social impact of sport tourism has to be ascertained as these may influence the type and nature of sporting events that should be considered at the destination.
3. THE POTENTIAL FOR SPORT TOURISM IN TRINIDAD AND TOBAGO

Trinidad and Tobago has the potential in terms of facilities to host local, regional and international sport events by having one of the highest densities of sport facilities in the English speaking Caribbean according to the Ministry of Sport and Youth Affairs (MSYA). The country has five multipurpose stadia (including the Dwight Yorke Stadium in Tobago), eight indoor sporting arenas, five 25m community swimming pools, one national hockey facility and three major golf courses. The destination also has the physical capacity to facilitate a wide range of professional and amateur sport events, for instance, the Guaracara Park is used to host major cycling events. Cricket tournaments are hosted at the Queen’s Park Oval and the University of the West Indies’ (UWI) International Cricking Facilities. Additionally, there are numerous prospects around the country to host adventure sport events.

The MSYA in collaboration with other relevant stakeholders, have set out to deliver high quality multi-purpose, multi-sport facilities for use in local, regional and international sport activities and events. The recently (2016) established sport infrastructure with facilities for swimming, cycling and racquet sports will serve to increase the physical capacity of the destination and enhance Trinidad and Tobago’s readiness as a competitive sport tourism destination. The National Cycling Velodrome (Couva) has a 250m wooden cycling track and seating accommodation for 2,500 persons; the National Aquatic Centre (Couva) with its 50m competition pool provides 940 permanent seats with an additional 960 mobile bleacher seats (if required) and the dry dive facility (learning/teaching centre); and the National Racquet Sports Centre (Tacarigua) accommodates one outdoor centre court with seating for 1,500 patrons. These venues, though initially designed for training purposes as opposed to event hosting, have great potential for use as sport tourism facilities. These sporting complexes have been built to international standards and therefore add to the suite of offerings available to the sport tourist. The facilities can therefore raise the profile of the destination as a veritable sport tourism haven by hosting both regional and hemispheric championships. There is also the recently opened Brian Lara Cricket Academy in Tarouba which has the capacity to host international cricket events. This includes both the hosting of the T20 Cricket Festival and the Brian Lara XI against an International XI. The world class sport facilities in Couva and Tacarigua can host a variety of sport events thereby, creating a hub for sport tourism.

In order to secure the economic sustainability of sport tourism, it is incumbent on the destination to attract and host a continuous stream of international and regional sporting events such as championships, tournaments, competitions and training camps. The recent successes of Trinidad and Tobago’s sportsmen and women in the Olympics as well as in the international arena have shown the world that Trinidad and Tobago can produce World Class competitors in different sporting disciplines. This affords an opportunity for up and coming athletes to visit our shores and experience the training methodologies and techniques of our successful and popular athletes.

Strong, effective and focused leadership is key to realising the full potential of this niche market.
3.1 Role of Sport Tourism in the development of the tourism sector in Trinidad and Tobago

Sport tourism can contribute to the overall economic development of Trinidad and Tobago. However, for this to be accomplished, the number of sport tourism events hosted, its calibre and status, frequency and duration are critical inputs to produce an increase in visitor arrivals and visitor spend at the destination. In addition, other non-competitive events including hosting of sport conferences and meetings, training programmes and conducting clinics all augment the economic opportunities that are available via sport tourism. The proposed development and implementation of facilities for nurturing high performance sportsmen (elite athletes for competition) could trigger the demand for accommodation and services for visiting athletes and staff.

Economic benefits may include revenue generation from the increased demand for hotel accommodation, transportation services, food and beverage, entertainment, television and media coverage, advertising and health and medical services. Moreover, sport tourism can help reduce the level of poverty in communities through the development of small and micro business enterprises and the up-skilling of community members to welcome, host and serve the sport tourism visitor. Sport tourism can also contribute to other forms of tourism such as ecotourism and community based tourism. Ecotourism tour packages can be developed and promoted amongst sport tourists. Similarly, communities have the opportunity to promote authentic cultural and heritage products to their visitors.

Local infrastructure can also be improved through the construction of new roads and the maintenance of existing ones, the upgrade of existing sites and attractions, and the expansion of telecommunication networks throughout the country, especially wireless facilities. The use of Information and Communications Technology (ICT) and the development of smartphone Apps can contribute significantly to the overall visitor experience. For example, the installation of free Wi-Fi at a facility will allow the sport tourist with smartphones to explore an array of options using a smartphone App such as the purchase of preferred seats, food and beverage, team merchandise and mode of transportation and their access points.

In addition, positive media coverage emanating from the successful hosting of sport events can boost the image of the host country. It is therefore imperative that all components of the sport tourism value chain be planned carefully and executed efficiently to provide an enhanced and memorable visitor experience.

3.2 Sport Tourism Policy Context

The Government of the Republic of Trinidad and Tobago (GORTT) is committed to facilitating the diversification and promotion of Trinidad and Tobago’s tourism product. The National Tourism Policy (2010) and Government Policy Framework (2015) advocate for the sustainable development and promotion of sport tourism as part of the broader national effort to diversify the economy and improve tourism’s contribution to the country’s GDP. In addition, the sustainable development and promotion of the sport tourism niche will be aligned to the National Development Strategy 2016 – 2030 (Vision 2030), and the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). The policy is also aligned to Local Government Reform as it addresses National Governing Bodies and their role in sport tourism as well as the National Sport Policy (2002)\textsuperscript{10}.

In 2016, the Standing Committee for the Strategic and Sustainable Development of Tourism in Trinidad\textsuperscript{11}, developed a Tourism Roadmap which recommended a niche market approach for the development of the tourism sector in Trinidad. This Tourism Roadmap highlighted sport tourism as one of the supporting niches for development of the tourism sector.

Based on the foregoing, the Ministry of Tourism, the Ministry of Sport and Youth Affairs (MSYA) and its implementing agency will work collaboratively with the broader cross-section of National Sporting Organisations, and National Governing Bodies, other sport associations, community groups and tourism stakeholders in private and non-governmental organisations to develop the sport tourism niche.

The Ministry of Tourism and the Tobago House of Assembly (THA), will continue to encourage investors by offering attractive incentives and concessions to invest in the development of infrastructure including accommodation facilities and other supporting amenities that cater to the sport tourism niche.

\section*{4. KEY CONSIDERATIONS IN DEVELOPING SPORT TOURISM}

\subsection*{4.1 Product Development}

This Policy recognises the need for products and services that meet the specific needs of the international sport tourism visitor, whether this visitor is a high performance athlete, an amateur, a spectator or an official. The blend of sport and tourism must result in a distinctive and memorable experience that meets and exceeds the expectations of the visitor. Synergies will be explored with entertainment, culture, festivals and heritage to diversify the sport tourism offerings of the destination. Organisations, businesses and agencies involved in sport and tourism development in Trinidad and Tobago will need to collaborate, establish strategic linkages and share resources to produce a high quality product that can be packaged, offered and delivered seamlessly to the sport tourism visitor. Products and services being developed and offered must take into account the vulnerability and sensitivity of the natural environment.

\subsection*{4.2 Facilities Amenities and Supporting Services}

Sport facilities, amenities and accommodation are critical components for the development of the sport tourism niche. Careful consideration has to be undertaken when attracting or developing sporting events of a certain scale and magnitude with the infrastructural and resource capabilities

\textsuperscript{10} The Ministry of Tourism is aware that the Ministry of Sport is currently reviewing and revising its Sport Policy and is working with it to ensure alignment between the two policies.

\textsuperscript{11} The Standing Committee for the Strategic and Sustainable Development of Tourism in Trinidad is a Cabinet Appointed Committee established in January 2016.
of the host destination. Sporting facilities should be well-equipped with the appropriate and necessary amenities and services to meet the needs of high-performance as well as amateur athletes. Accessibility for all participants and visitors including differently-abled persons should be in place. In this regard, ramps for wheelchair access and suitable facilities that cater to those who are visually impaired and those who may be accompanied by their guide service animals, should available. The GORTT will adopt national and international standards for development of facilities and services for the sport and tourism sectors.

4.3 Marketing and Promotions

Trinidad and Tobago has been involved in sport tourism for several years, having hosted a number of successful regional and international events. Due to the fierceness of the competition for a share in this segment, the destination has to be positioned and perceived as one that can successfully host high quality sport tourism events. A stream of high profile sporting events can elevate the profile of the destination as a sport tourism one. A deliberate and strategic marketing campaign, highlighting high quality products and services that meet international standards must be developed for this niche.

In marketing and promoting the destination, Trinidad and Tobago will target a range of demographic and economic segments including the mid to high end sport visitor and specific high yield events of the sport niche. This would allow the destination to benefit from greater spend per traveller as well as provide opportunities to develop products, facilities and services that meet higher standards.

4.4 Investment

In anticipation of the growth and development of this niche, the Ministry of Tourism (MOT) and the Tobago House of Assembly (THA) Division of Tourism Culture and Transportation will review the existing suite of incentives with a view to making it more attractive and competitive and encourage investment in this niche. The GORTT will seek to create a business environment that is conducive to entrepreneurship and one where conditions allow businesses to thrive. The GORTT will encourage innovation and creativity using relevant sector research, market intelligence and analysis. The Policy acknowledges that potential investors are able to access other forms of incentives as outlined in the Ministry of Trade and Industry’s Investment Policy Statement and Compendium of Incentives.

4.5 Health, Safety and Security

One of the main determinants for the selection of a destination to visit or invest is the perception of safety and security at that location. The GORTT, in collaboration with all relevant stakeholders, shall adopt measures to ensure that the health, safety and security of local and foreign visitors are made a priority for the destination and at sport tourism venues, sites and attractions. Signage and other safety and security collateral will be developed and utilised to advise visitors how to keep safe at the destination’s sites and attractions. Additional safety measures to protect the health of visitors and locals alike will be employed, given the advent of vector borne diseases (e.g. Dengue, Chikungunya, Zika and others).

The issue of crime and other anti-social behaviour, will be addressed through collaborative efforts among the Ministry of Tourism, the Ministry of National Security and the THA. The Tourism Oriented Policing Services\textsuperscript{12} (TOPS) programme which is available in Tobago, will also be implemented in Trinidad. The GORTT is keen on protecting and safeguarding its residents and visitors to this destination, and therefore any external threats to the destination will be met with an appropriate inter-agency response.

\textbf{4.6 Community Participation}

Sporting events bring noteworthy benefits to the local community. These include new revenue streams, investment opportunities, new infrastructure, and the renovation of existing ones. It is recognised that there is an opportunity for mutual collaboration between the community and the hosting of sporting events which will draw sportsmen and visitors in close proximity. Thus, it is imperative that the community is encouraged to participate in tourism activities that will emanate from these sporting activities.

Community members can partake on various levels and directly as volunteers, participants or spectators. However, they also serve as tourism ambassadors as they possess the cultural or social knowledge that non-residents lack.\textsuperscript{13}

This Policy will provide a framework that mobilises community involvement in sport tourism and allows access to the benefits that can be accrued from this sector.

\textbf{5. SPORT TOURISM POLICY FRAMEWORK}

\textbf{5.1 Policy Statement}

The Ministry of Tourism will partner with key stakeholders to develop Trinidad and Tobago as an internationally competitive sport tourism destination while expanding its domestic sport tourism niche and generating positive socio-economic benefits for all citizens.

\textbf{5.2 Vision}

The vision for Trinidad and Tobago is:

\begin{flushleft}\textsuperscript{12} The TOPS unit comprises Police Officers who are specifically trained to assist and protect visitors against crime and other anti-social behaviour.\textsuperscript{13}

\textsuperscript{13} Developing Local Citizenship through Sporting Events: Balancing Community Involvement and Tourism Development. Laura Misener & Daniel S. Mason (2006)\end{flushleft}
“The establishment of Trinidad and Tobago as the leading sport tourism destination in the English speaking Caribbean as well as this hemisphere by 2030”

5.3 Guiding Principles

The Sport Tourism Policy provides a framework for the development, management and promotion of sport tourism in Trinidad and Tobago and shall be guided by the following principles:

i. An enabling and supportive environment that will boost investment in the sport tourism niche;

ii. A formalised collaborative approach whereby the local community, the private sector, the NSOs, NGBs and other relevant agencies are involved in the development and growth of the sport tourism niche;

iii. Best practice guidelines to be used when bidding and / or hosting international events;

iv. Research and data collection which will be used to inform planning, implementation and evaluation of goals and objectives for sport tourism;

v. Inter-sectoral linkages among key stakeholders to ensure the sustainable development and growth of sport tourism;

vii. Local sport programmes will be blended with a tourism component to encourage domestic sport tourism; and viii. Transparent and objective procedures will be employed when facilitating access to public funding.

5.4 Goals

To facilitate the sustainable development and growth of the sport tourism niche, the following goals will be pursued.

i. Develop and deliver innovative and creative sport tourism products and services;

ii. Raise the profile of Trinidad and Tobago as a competitive sport tourism destination;

iii. Empower and build capacity within the community so that residents reap the benefits of sport tourism;
iv. Facilitate and support capacity building initiatives and educational opportunities for persons and groups aligned to sport tourism;

v. Provide a healthy, safe and secure environment and experience at sport tourism events, sites and attractions; and

vi. Stimulate investment in business ventures which support the sport tourism niche.

6. STRATEGIC OBJECTIVES

The GORTT, in partnership with all relevant stakeholders, shall pursue the following strategic objectives and carry out the following activities:

6.1. Product Development

A successful sport tourism product requires a blend of world class sporting facilities, an established range of regional and internationally competitive events, a natural environment suitable for marine and land based sports supported by a cadre of competent, qualified coaches and technical officials, and the provision of a high quality service and experience.

With this in mind, the GORTT shall:

i. Ensure that facilities, sites, and attractions are accessible to all athletes, spectators and enthusiasts including differently-abled persons;

ii. Support the development of hallmark or signature annual events that are unique to the destination;

iii. Improve product knowledge of staff by providing accurate, up to date information and continuous training;
